The School occupies a commodious building, and is designed to afford pupils a thorough preparation for the Freshman Class, and also a complete course of English studies. It is under the immediate supervision of the Faculty, and is subject to the general regulations of the College.

A contingent fee, of five dollars in the Classical Preparatory and three dollars in the English Preparatory, is charged.

General Remarks.

TUITION, FIVE MONTHS TERM, IN ADVANCE.

Freshman Class	$30 00
Sophomore "	30 00
Junior "	35 00
Senior "	35 00
Contingent Fee, in all Classes	5 00
Laboratory Fee for Classes in Physical Science	2 00
Boarding, per week	3 50 to 5 00

REMARKS ON EXPENSES.

Tuition Fees are never refunded.

Students entering within three weeks of the opening are charged for the full term.

CLUB BOARDING

Is extensively practised, and saves about half the expenses of boarding. Students wishing to enter a Club furnish their own bedding and rent a room near some family with whom they can have their cooking done. Large clubs have their own cook.

SUGGESTIONS TO OUR PATRONS.

If possible, every student should enter the institution the first day of the Fall Term. All new classes are organized the first of that term, and those entering later must take their chances in the classes already organized. Minors should never be left entirely to their own selection of boarding house, nor of studies; nor should they ever be allowed to open accounts in the stores. A full and regular course of study has immense advantages over all irregular courses.

BOARDING.

Students board with private families. The very best citizens of the town open their doors to boarders, placing generally but two students in a room.

FACILITIES.

Literary Societies, Libraries, Daily Drill by all the Professors, Practical Instruction, such as fits scholars for active usefulness, rather than literary leisure, are some of the advantages here afforded. The town is eminently healthy, while the moral influences thrown around the student are of incalculable service. A daily prayer meeting, held by the theological students, is open to all the matriculants of the University.

ELECTIVE COURSES.

Several courses of Elective Studies are provided for, as follows :

Selections from the Collegiate Course and Modern Languages.

Selections from the Collegiate Course and the full Theological Course.

Selections from the Collegiate Course and the full Commercial Course.

At the same time, it will be remembered that the regular course has great advantages over any other.

MASTER'S DEGREE.

A regular course of elective studies has been organized preparatory to this degree. Bachelors aiming at the Master's Degree will be expected to undergo an examination on the prescribed studies, or their equivalents. A wide field of equivalents to select from is contemplated; while the study of any learned profession, so as to secure a degree therein, will be accepted as equivalent to half of the prescribed course.

COURSE OF ELECTIVE STUDIES.

Mental Philosophy: Hamilton, Kant, Reid, Bain, Porter, Aristotle.

Logic: Hamilton, Aristotle, Mill.

Ethics: The Bible, Seneca, Helvetius.

Evidences of Christianity: Lardner, Chalmers, Butler

(Four of the above required.)

Mathematics: Descriptive Geometry, Analytic Geometry (Howison's, Ray's Series), Calculus, Dif. Int. and Variations, Analytical Mechanics, Astronomy.

Natural Science: Proficiency in some one is preferred.

Classics: Eclogues, Georgics, Art of Poetry, Oration for Milo, Isocrates, Livy, or one modern language mastered so as to speak and write it.

Examination Fee, $15.

Diploma Fee, $5.

GRADING.

Each student is furnished with a monthly statement of his grading, signed by the Grading Clerk, J. C. Hardin, which he is expected to mail his parents or guardian.

RAILROAD FACILITIES.

Lebanon is accessible by two daily trains from Nashville.

Commercial School.

Faculty.

REV. B. W. McDONNOLD,
President.

H. S. KENNEDY, A. M.,
Professor of Book-keeping and Commercial Correspondence.

BENJ. DECHERD, A. M.,
Professor of Penmanship, Geography and History.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Book-Keeping (Bryant and Stratton's complete course).
Pennmanship (Spencer's Manual).
Commercial Arithmetic (Crittenden).
Geography of Trade (Warren).
Business and Legal Forms, and Mercantile Correspondence (Crittenden).
Success in Business (Freedly).

Lectures on Commercial Law, on the National Banking System, on Private Banks and the usages of Business Corporations.

PLAN OF INSTRUCTION.—The afternoon of each day will be devoted to the School. The exercises of each class will be under the personal supervision of its Professor. Values will be represented by slips of paper. Commission, wholesale and retail houses will be opened, various business corporations formed, and the details of actual business life entered into and practically discussed, thus preparing the student for any emergency that may arise.

FEES.—For those who are not students of the University, $30. Contingent fee, $5. For those who are students, $10 extra.

DIPLOMA.—Those satisfactorily completing the course will be awarded by the Trustees of the University a certificate as Regular Accountants, and facilities will thus be presented for acquiring immediate and lucrative employment.

See Classical Preparatory for list of students.

Theological Department.

Faculty.

B. W. McDONNOLD, D. D. LL. D.,
President.

RICHARD BEARD, D. D.,
Professor of Systematic Theology.

T. C. ANDERSON, D. D.,
Lecturer on Pastoral Theology and Composition and Delivery of Sermons.

OBJECTS OF THE THEOLOGICAL SCHOOL.

It is the desire of those in charge of the Theological Department to contribute, as far as they may be able, towards furnishing to the Church not only an intelligent but a practical ministry. The text-books are considered practical. Practical habits are encouraged among the young men here. By preaching in vacant congregations around, and laboring in Sunday-schools in destitute neighborhoods, they make themselves useful and acquire such habits as must greatly increase their usefulness hereafter. A ministry so educated can not fail to be a blessing to the Church.

We do not believe that the highest degree of intellectual culture has any tendency to impair, but rather to improve, the spirituality of religion, when the culture is connected with practical religious subjects.

Provision will be made for three full recitations each day, conducted by the Professor, with the aid of the President. The course of studies will embrace the Greek and Hebrew Scriptures, Systematic Theology, Hebrew and Christian Antiquities, Evidences of Christianity, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Analogy of Natural and Revealed Religion, Ecclesiastical History, Pulpit Elocution and Pastoral Theology. This course of studies will be connected with Lectures upon the several subjects of study, or collateral subjects.

The Trustees and Faculty have agreed upon a concurrent course of Literature, Science and Theology, by which a student may carry forward some of the regular College studies most necessary as a preparation for the Ministry in connection with his Theological studies. By pursuing this course, he may graduate as a Bachelor in Theology at the expiration of four years from the time of his entrance into the Freshman Class. This arrangement is made, however, with the understanding that the last of the four years shall be devoted wholly to Theological studies.

Students who are prepared at once to enter successfully upon the study of the Greek and Hebrew Scriptures can complete the Theological course in two years. Provision will also be made for those whose circumstances compel them to a shorter course.

The Library of the late Dr. Murdock, of Yale College, which has been liberally donated to the Theological Department here, is an invaluable acquisition. It is hoped, too, that in a year or two, with the aid of the Finley bequest and the co-operation of liberal men, this Department may be fully organized. Three Professorships have been nominally established by the Board under the direction of the General Assembly—the Ewing Professorship of Systematic Theology, the Murdock Professorship of Ecclesiastical History, and the Finley Professorship of Pastoral Theology. The two former have as yet no productive endowment. Judge Ewing donated property in the city of Chicago, which will be valuable, but has thus far yielded nothing. The consideration in the establishment of the Murdock Professorship was the library of Dr. Murdock, whose honored name the Professorship bears. The Finley Professorship is based upon a productive capital, not sufficient, however, to meet the expenses of the Professorship. It will be seen, therefore, that we labor under great disadvantages from want of ability to carry forward the work of the Theological Department as we would desire. With more than fifty young men preparing for the ministry, the full organization and vigorous support of this Department ought to be considered an absolute necessity. Will not the Church accept this earnest statement, and meet it practically? It is proper to add, however, that under all our disadvantages we are doing something. We have a regular Theological class and are carrying forward the work of the Theological Department, we trust to the satisfaction of all concerned. It is hoped that a still more liberal provision can be made for instruction in this Department for the following year. Camp Blake was a noble conception, and is working well.

Total Candidates for the Ministry, 67.

Camp Blake.

This Institution was organized in September, 1868, and has been in successful operation ever since.

TERMS.

1. A contingent fee of $10 is required to be paid in advance, not to be refunded in any case.

2. No one is admitted until he has furnished evidence that he is a candidate for the Ministry, in the care of some Presbytery in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

3. A room is furnished with a bunk and chairs and a table. The student furnishes his own wood, washing, lights, bedding and whatever else he may need. Of course no charge is made for board. All eat at the same table, where every appliance is provided.

4. Candidates for the Ministry pay no tuition; but before entering College each one is required to pay five dollars contingent tax.

The whole expense of boarding in Camp Blake, including both contingent taxes and books, per session, need not exceed fifty dollars, and by very rigid economy may be considerably less.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Money and provisions for Camp Blake may be sent to Hon. Nathan Green, Lebanon, Tennessee.

FREE TUITION.

Candidates for the Ministry are taught gratuitously. This favor is extended on the faith of the Church, and with the full expectation that the Institution will be furnished with money enough to enable it to continue this policy. In obedience to a heavy pressure from the churches, the Trustees have required a refunding bond, binding candidates to refund to the Institution or to the Church all the tuition or boarding given them, in case they should ever abandon, voluntarily, the ministry as a calling.

ENDOWMENT.

Camp Blake ought to be endowed. The Church has now bought a home for its young preachers and paid for it. It sends money and provisions, and thus feeds them while they are studying. It is but sheer justice that the tuition of these young men should be paid. It is wrong to require the Faculty to give it. And how it would relieve the sensibilities of the candidates if they could feel that the Church had paid their way! The only satisfactory and permanent way to do this is to endow Camp Blake. Fifty thousand dollars invested in U. S. bonds would yield enough interest to pay the tuition of sixty young preachers annually.

Course of Study.

JUNIOR CLASS.

Caruthers' History of a Law Suit; Stephens' Pleading; Kent's Commentaries; Greenleaf's Evidence, 1st Vol.

SENIOR CLASS.

Barton's Suit in Equity; Story's Equity Jurisprudence; Bishop's Criminal Law; Parsons on Contracts.

This course is very imperfect; but is so necessarily. It is impossible to become a good lawyer during the short time young men can be induced to remain in any school of Law.

All that can be done is to give them a decent preparation for a license, and fit them respectably for beginning the practice.

COURSE CONDENSED.

After much study and reflection, the Faculty and Trustees have determined to condense the course so as to enable gentlemen to be graduated in two sessions of five months each.

It will be seen that we now have only two classes, the Junior and the Senior. Many books of importance are of course left out and those only retained which are deemed indispensable. Yet those which are in the course, if well studied and understood, will make any man a good lawyer. Perhaps it may be truly said that law books, more than any others, are filled with repetitions, the principles of law being comparatively few.

The fifteen volumes which are now embraced in the course discuss every subject of importance known to the law. The student, therefore, who is attentive will find himself at the end of the ten months master of sufficient elements on every legal topic to enable him to enter upon his professional life.

We frankly state here the reasons which have induced us to make the change:

1. Most of the Law Schools in the United States have shortened the time thus within which students may be graduated.

2. But few young men who have attended the school since the war have been able to remain longer than ten months. Nearly three-fourths of those who have entered our Junior Class upon the old system of fifteen months, have fallen off before reaching the Senior Class.

3. The condition of the country since the late civil war seems to demand that there should be a change. Our young men, for the most part, are limited in their means. They are really not able to remain here on expenses longer than is absolutely necessary. And, further, their exigencies require that they should go to work for themselves as soon as possible.

This they will do whether we graduate them or not. They will apply to the Judges, who will feel bound to license them after very poor preparation and a few months of unsatisfactory reading in some law-office. We have thought it better that we should abridge our course somewhat, and thus reduce the time and lessen the expenses, so as to induce more of them to enter the school, where they can be thoroughly drilled in the practice and instructed in the elements at least for ten months.

4. As has been said heretofore, all we can do is to prepare the student for a license. It may be objected that the ten months is too short for even that. We may be told that it once required an apprenticeship of seven years before our English ancestors would allow the attorney to engage in the practice. That may have been necessary then, but is not now. Anciently the law was diffused through many books, most of which were reports. Years of labor and observation in the office and in the Courts were necessary to give the beginners any proper notion of the law itself and the practice.

But now Blackstone, Kent, Story, Greenleaf and others have collected the principles of jurisprudence from the vast number of reports, and have arranged, digested and reduced them to system, and have brought them within a small compass. They have done the work for us which the British student formerly had to do himself.

It is certainly, therefore, not hazarding too much to say that the modern diligent student can accomplish more in one year than the ancient student could in seven, just as the modern railroad train can travel faster in one day than our forefathers could have gone with their road wagons in ten days.

We would be glad if we could induce young men to remain at the School two years or longer, but we can not.

RESIDENT GRADUATES.

Gentlemen who may pass through our course and receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws are invited to remain another year free of charge.

LICENSE TO PRACTICE.

The Faculty of this Law School are authorized by law to confer license to practice. This will be given to all who receive diplomas, without any extra fee.

MOOT COURTS.

Every student is drilled in the forms of pleading and practice. Moot Courts are established as part of the regular course. In these all are required to participate. Cases are made out and given to the disputants, who are required to bring suit in whatever court the matter may be cognizable. The Professors sit as judges and the students, by turn, act as jurors, clerks and sheriffs. The causes are argued—often with great cogency and interest—and the jury charged and the verdict rendered and judgment entered exactly as in real courts.

TUITION FEE, &c.

The fee is sixty dollars for a session of five months, and five dollars contingent tax. Diploma fee, five dollars.

More law is now taught in each class than formerly, and consequently more labor is devolved on the Professor. Formerly the student paid one hundred and fifty dollars in the three sessions for tuition. Now he pays for two sessions one hundred and twenty dollars only, and saves five months boarding and other expenses.

BOOKS.

Students furnish their own books, which can be bought cheaper in Lebanon than elsewhere. The books in the Junior course can be obtained in Lebanon for forty-one dollars. The books in the Senior course will cost forty-five dollars.

LITERARY QUALIFICATIONS.

No knowledge of Latin or Greek is required, nor any other special literary qualification in order to enter the Law School.

LECTURES.

We do not teach by lectures. A lesson is assigned, and each student is examined every day upon the text. The Law is in the text books, and it is better to require the student to tell what it is than for the Professor to announce it in a lecture. Still, all difficulties are removed and dark passages explained in the course of recitation.

WHAT WE TEACH.

We teach the Common Law which is applicable alike in all the States except in Louisiana, and to some extent in that. The student who is educated here may therefore practice anywhere in the United States.

BOARDING.

Boarding in good families at from $3.50 to $5.00 per week.

SESSIONS.

There are two sessions. The Fall Session begins on the first Monday in September next and ends January 18th, 1872. The Spring Session begins January 22d and ends June 6th, 1872.

OUR HISTORY AND PROSPECTS.

The Lebanon Law School was established in 1847 by Judge Abraham Caruthers. There were thirteen students the first term. As soon as the plan of instruction became generally known the numbers increased so rapidly that it became necessary to add another Professor, the Hon. Nathan Green. This was in 1847. Shortly after the Hon. B. L. Ridley was added.

Under the guidance of these distinguished men, all of whom now rest from their labors, the institution prospered to a degree never equaled in the United States during so short an interval. The year before the war the number of students was more than two hundred.

Probably more than a thousand young men have pursued their legal studies here. Many fell during the late civil war. But many survived, and they are rapidly taking the high places of public trust throughout the land. Numbers of them are to-day Chancellors, Judges and Congressmen, and many are standing at the head of their profession all over the country. There is scarcely a town in the contiguous States that has not a representative from the Lebanon Law School. While there may be a few who do us no particular honor, yet we point with pride to the great mass of those who have been educated here. They are, to a great extent now, and as the years and their numbers increase, will continue to be controlling minds in the country. It is hoped the School will not lose its usefulness under the present management. It is now on a good footing, with better prospects than at any time since the war. The students who now attend are noted for their good habits and earnest application. They come from many different States, and form themselves into a band of brothers, each vying with the other in diligence and zeal. Being in classes together, they constitute a powerful stimulus to one another while here. When they leave and settle in the various parts of the country each has scores of professional brethren whose future intercourse and correspondence in business may be highly beneficial and remunerative.

The town of Lebanon is famous for its morality, healthfulness and sociable hospitality. Students board in the best families, and are favorites with the citizens.

In view of the advantages offered here, we think we may safely invite gentlemen who have our profession in view to visit the Lebanon Law School.
